Dear Mr Bureaucratic Criminal,

Thank you for your letter dated 18th January, I write to you as a courtesy since I already have a default judgment and irrevocable estoppel by your tacit acquiescence.

Once again, you refer to my previous notices as letters thereby not acknowledging their legal standing despite the clear headings containing the word 'Notice' in bold type; however, I note that at the same time you required me to recognise the status of your alleged "Demand Notice" and act upon it accordingly. A notice is "the legal concept describing a requirement that a party be aware of legal process affecting their rights, obligations or duties". For my part I noticed your notice and responded in a timely manner by conditionally accepting it upon proofs of claim and by seeking clarification of its content. You on the other hand, have dishonoured my notices and this has resulted in a default judgment against you.

You have dishonoured my NOTICE OF DEFAULT AND OF ESTOPPEL BY ACQUIESCENCE by communicating with me without my consent. Therefore I must advise you that my fee schedule, as detailed in the aforementioned notice, is now active and I have enclosed an invoice for £100.00 (ONE HUNDRED AND ZERO PENCE GREAT BRITISH POUNDS STERLING) payable on receipt.

Sincerely without malice, ill will, vexation or frivolity
